Laidlaw College has been preparing people to serve the church and the world for 100 years. The School of Social Practice draws together this immense legacy of Christian thought and practice with contemporary counselling and education studies to prepare students for professional careers in the social practice sector.

We understand social practice to represent the myriad of ways people work to bring about change in the world. In the School of Social Practice this is enacted through preparing people for work in education and counselling professions. We are inspired by the Gospel story. This training reflects a commitment to faith, hope and love through a relational anthropology which values the transformational encounter that can be experienced in relationship with God, self and other.

Laidlaw College is a NZQA Category 1 Provider. This means you can have absolute confidence in the quality of all our programmes. Our teacher education programmes are concerned with personal, community and social renewal. Our graduates engage in social systems through education, so that children and young people can enjoy the freedom to choose their stories wisely through learning.

We welcome applicants from all backgrounds who have a desire to work with children and young people in a way that integrates their personal faith with professional teaching practice.

STUDY PATHWAYS

The School of Education at Laidlaw College consists of a team of inspirational, experienced teacher educators, academics, theologians and a vibrant, proactive student body. The faculty is committed to the preparation of graduate teachers who will embody the Christian vision of Laidlaw College as well as meet the standards of the Teaching Council Aotearoa New Zealand.

The Bachelor of Education (Primary) is an applied degree that invites students into a pedagogy and theology of hope, which inspires their presence in learning spaces, the way they encounter children and whānau, their valuing of teaching, learning, creativity and curiosity.

The Graduate Diploma in Education (Secondary) is an initial teacher education qualification that similarly offers degree-qualified students a comprehensive and innovative practice-based pathway into secondary teaching.

“What if education was primarily concerned with shaping our hopes and passions—our visions of ‘the good life’—and not merely about the dissemination of data and information as inputs to our thinking?”

Career Opportunities

Graduating students of the Bachelor of Education (Primary) are outstanding teachers, qualified to work in public, integrated and private schools throughout New Zealand at primary and intermediate level.

Outline

The Bachelor of Education (Primary) is an NZQA accredited qualification endorsed by the Teaching Council Aotearoa New Zealand. It involves on-campus study including collaborative and blended learning and over 120 days of professional learning experiences in schools or centres. It is a professional degree that leads to a career in primary teaching in New Zealand and potentially overseas. The Bachelor of Education (Primary) is offered at the Henderson and Christchurch campuses.

The programme is designed to provide innovative pre-service teacher education that meets the Code and Standards of the teaching profession in a supported environment. The programme is richly integrated with Christian theology. Theology wrestles not only with who God has revealed himself to be, but also with what it means to be human in relation to God. Children are unique, relational human beings living and learning in the context of a changing society. Children are society's future. Teachers impact communities with hope when they celebrate each child's diversity and educate inclusively, within a learner-focused culture, from the place of a meaningful and hopeful orientation towards the world.

Throughout the programme, students develop and critically engage professional philosophies, teaching and learning theory and practice. Students have the opportunity to engage in practice and inquire in one of three practicum foci: early primary, primary or middle school/intermediate. The programme is a dynamic and grounded course of study that produces inspiring, creative and curious primary school teachers capable of drawing the next generation to their potential. The Bachelor of Education (Primary) is designed to develop high-quality, ethical and inquiring teachers. These teachers celebrate and engage children and their learning in responsive collaboration with whānau, community and other agencies.

Objectives

- Graduating students meet the Code and Standards of the Teaching Profession and are eligible to register with the Teaching Council of Aotearoa New Zealand
- Graduating students can integrate faith and practice in relational and liberating ways
- Graduating students can work as teachers in the primary school sector in state, integrated and private schools

Graduate Profile

On completion of the Bachelor of Education, graduates will be able to:

- Demonstrate commitment to tangata whenuatanga and Te Tiriti o Waitangi partnership in Aotearoa New Zealand. (Te Tiriti o Waitangi Partnership)
- Use inquiry, collaborative problem-solving and professional learning to improve professional capability to impact on the learning and achievement of all learners. (Professional learning)
- Establish and maintain professional relationships and behaviours focused on the learning and wellbeing of each learner. (Professional relationships)
- Develop a culture that is focused on learning, and is characterised by respect, inclusion, empathy, collaboration and safety (Learning-focused culture)
- Design learning based on curriculum and pedagogical knowledge, assessment information and an understanding of each learner's strengths, interests, needs, identities, languages and cultures. (Design for learning)
- Teach and respond to learners in a knowledgeable and adaptive way to progress their learning at an appropriate depth and pace.

Programme Information

Study Locations

The Bachelor of Education (Primary) is offered in Henderson and Christchurch. The programme is not available to be studied by distance; however, there is flexibility to study some courses part-time before needing to be fully integrated in the programme. This needs to be discussed with the Programme Lead before a plan can be finalised.

Period of Study – Full-Time/Part-Time

This programme is normally completed on a full-time basis over three years. It can also be undertaken on a part-time basis after consultation with the Programme Lead, but the degree must be completed within a timeframe of eight years unless special permission is granted by the National Academic Committee. In the event of extended absence from the programme, returning students may be required to undertake a supplementary course of study to ensure currency of practice.

Mid-Year Intake

Entry into the Bachelor of Education (Primary) programme at mid-year can be on a full-time or part-time basis.

Academic Year Structure: 2023

Schedule

A schedule is provided during orientation which includes all the course dates, noho marae and any other relevant dates. Students are responsible for ensuring they are aware of information which applies to their course of study.

Laidlaw College Orientation

In the first week of Semester One NEW students must attend the full Orientation programme which provides incoming students with an orientation to study at Laidlaw College and the School of Social Practice, and Education Orientation week also contains events for continuing students. Important information regarding courses and programme structure is discussed during orientation so it is imperative that students attend. You will receive details about Orientation once you are accepted into the programme. Students entering the programme mid-year will also be involved in a mini orientation programme in the first week of Semester Two.

Education Faculty Noho Marae

During semester two each year, Education students attend a two-day noho marae where they will develop their te reo Māori skills for use in the classroom and learn more about te ao Māori. Final year Bachelor of Education and Graduate Diploma students collaborate with Laidlaw's Rūnanga to design and lead the noho marae on behalf of the entire programme. All Education students are required to attend. Further details will be provided at Orientation.

Workload and Programme Structure

Full-time study requires a commitment of at least 40 hours per week. Part-time work and whānau/childcare responsibilities need to be carefully considered particularly in relation to practicum commitments.

Attendance

Laidlaw's policy requires a minimum of 80% attendance for all on-campus courses. Students who do not achieve 80% attendance at on-campus courses will be restricted from professional learning experience placements (i.e. practicum).

Professional Learning Experiences

A well-integrated understanding of teaching practice and the ability to reflect critically on it is fundamental to hopeful, responsive and transformational teaching. This underpins all five courses that form the core teaching practice development stream within the Bachelor of Education (Primary) programme. There are over 120 days of professional learning experiences in schools and centres in the Bachelor of Education (Primary) degree.

A feature of the Bachelor of Education (Primary) is that students can select one of three streams as a practice and inquiry focus which allows for transition specialisation supported by our school partners. The three streams are:

- Early Primary: The early primary stream allows students to focus on ECE transition into Primary Education. Students are able to undertake approximately 40 days of practicum in an ECE centre working with preschool children and 80 days in the early primary window (new entrant to year 2) in a range of contexts.
- Primary: This is a standard primary practicum stream where students experience a wide range of contexts and levels from early primary through to intermediate.
- Late Primary: The late primary stream allows students to focus on the transition from Primary to Secondary. Students undertake 80 days in the late primary window (year 6 - 8) and approximately 40 days in a Middle School or Secondary setting (pre-NCEA).

In the five core practicum courses, students are placed in approved schools and centres by the Practicum Coordinator according to the elected practicum streams. Students must participate in a variety of professional learning experiences so they should expect placements in different kinds of school or centre settings (i.e. state, Christian, integrated, special context).

While on practicum, students are supervised by a teacher holding a full practicing certificate (the Associate Teacher) and are supported by the mentoring lecturer and the Practicum Coordinator. All professional placement interactions/observations are carried out by teacher educators (the Visiting Lecturer) who hold a full practicing certificate and the majority of these visits are carried out by Laidlaw teacher educators who teach into the programme. All visiting lecturers are well prepared and supported by the Practicum Coordinator. Visiting Lecturers visit the student on practicum, provide weekly feedback and further support as needed. Students use an online repository to collate and exhibit their practicum learning.

The practicum programme in the degree consists of five courses. Each element in a practicum must be completed successfully in order to continue to the next. An incomplete practicum will require remedial work (this involves a further fee) or in some situations the course will need to be repeated.

Reflective Practices is a practicum in year one that focuses on the skills of observation, critical reflection and offers students introductory design for learning, and mediated teaching/learning experiences with small groups of learners and a whole class lesson.

Literacy and Numeracy Practices is a practicum course in year two that focuses on English and Mathematics Learning Areas in the New Zealand Curriculum including design for learning, teaching and assessment.

Curriculum and Community Practices develops a student teacher's ability to teach other curriculum areas as well as contribute to the wider school or centre community.

Responsive Practices and Inquiring Teacher Practices have a core focus on the high-quality demonstration of the Code and Standards in a supported environment, and application of culturally responsive inquiry and practice. In the final practicum the student must demonstrate sustained practice, evidence-led teaching and inquiry, and leadership and collaboration in a learning environment.

The final task of the final practicum is a culminating integrative assessment called the Viva. A viva voce is an oral presentation and examination and, in this case, with a written element. Graduating teachers will present and unpack an authentic practice scenario that requires complex decision-making and synthesis of learning from across the programme with clear integration of theory and practice and alignment with the Code and Standards of the teaching profession. This event is assessed by a panel made up of teacher educators, Rūnanga, Pasifika Council, and a representative member of the teaching profession. At the conclusion of the Viva the graduate is assessed by the panel as to have met or not met the Standards with support against pass/fail criteria.

Admission Requirements

Career Opportunities

Graduates of the GradDipEd are fully equipped to enter intermediate, middle school and secondary school classrooms and are qualified to work in public, integrated and private schools throughout New Zealand.

Outline

This one-year graduate diploma provides a professional qualification in teaching and learning for people who already have a Bachelor's degree or equivalent qualification, skills or experience.

The graduate diploma draws upon a praxis model integrating theory and practice, with students spending at least 16 weeks in schools on professional practice placement. This programme develops secondary teachers with a thorough knowledge of the New Zealand Curriculum and assessment in Aotearoa, and a deeper understanding of their role in God's plan for redeeming humanity. Teachers play an important role in reflecting hope and social justice.

Students should indicate which learning areas of the New Zealand Curriculum they plan to focus on. The Learning Areas within the New Zealand Curriculum are: English, Te Reo Māori, The arts, Health and physical education; Learning languages, Mathematics and statistics, Science, Social sciences, and Technology (refer to full list in the Admissions Requirements section).

Objectives

Laidlaw College seeks to prepare students for the teaching profession through a programme that centres on a theological foundation of hope that meaningfully integrates and orients with values, commitments and quality practice that are consistent with the Teaching Council Aotearoa New Zealand's 'Our Code, Our Standards' in a supported environment.

Graduating students will be qualified to register as teachers in New Zealand for intermediate, middle and secondary teaching in public, integrated and private schools. Our graduates are relational, critically reflective practitioners who can design high-quality learning experiences from a place of curiosity about the learner, the world and a professional understanding of the goals, scope and nature of education. Our graduates work in public, private and integrated schools throughout New Zealand and also around the world.

Graduate Profile

On completion of the Graduate Diploma in Education, graduates will be able to:

- Demonstrate commitment to tangata whenuatanga and Te Tiriti o Waitangi partnership in Aotearoa New Zealand. (Te Tiriti o Waitangi Partnership)
- Use inquiry, collaborative problem-solving and professional learning to improve professional capability to impact on the learning and achievement of all learners. (Profession learning)
- Establish and maintain professional relationships and behaviours focused on the learning and wellbeing of each learner. (Professional relationships)
- Develop a culture that is focused on learning, and is characterised by respect, inclusion, empathy, collaboration and safety (Learning-focused culture)
- Design learning based on curriculum and pedagogical knowledge, assessment information and an understanding of each learner's strengths, interests, needs, identities, languages and cultures. (Design for learning)
- Teach and respond to learners in a knowledgeable and adaptive way to progress their learning at an appropriate depth and pace.

Programme Information

The Graduate Diploma of Education [Secondary] is offered in Christchurch and Henderson. The programme is not available to be studied by distance, however there is flexibility to study some courses part-time before needing to be fully integrated in the programme. This needs to be discussed with the Programme Lead before a plan can be finalised.

Schedule of Courses and Dates

The Graduate Diploma of Education starts mid-January. A schedule is provided which includes all the course dates, noho marae and any other relevant dates. Students are responsible for ensuring they are aware of information which applies to their course of study.

Laidlaw College Orientation

In the first week of Semester One ALL students must attend the Orientation programme which provides incoming students with an orientation to study at Laidlaw College.

Professional Learning Experiences

The Graduate Diploma of Education [Secondary] values praxis - the engagement of theory with application. Each Praxis Course is associated with modules of theory and reflection, which students use to develop their skills.

While on practicum students are supervised by a teacher holding a full practicing certificate (the Associate Teacher) and are supported by the mentoring lecturer, Practicum Coordinator, and the Graduate Diploma of Education Programme Lead. All professional placement interactions/ observations are carried out by teacher educators (the Visiting Lecturer) who hold a full practicing certificate and the majority of these visits are carried out by Laidlaw teacher educators who teach into the programme. All visiting lecturers are well prepared and supported by the Programme Lead. Visiting Lecturers visit the student on practicum, provide weekly feedback and further support as needed. Students use an online repository to collate and exhibit their practicum learning.

During Praxis 1 students spend the first weeks of the secondary school year building relationships and observing the learning-focused culture that Associate Teachers create during the classroom establishment period. Towards the end of Term 2, students spend six full weeks in school - considering different approaches to teaching and learning in subject areas and building towards sequences of lessons.

Praxis 2 links theory to practice and builds towards student involvement with developing and teaching units of learning and assessing students in subject areas. Students build from teaching sequences of lessons to teaching the same amount that would be expected of a graduating teacher.

The final task of Praxis 2 is a culminating integrative assessment called the Viva. A viva voce is an oral presentation and examination and in this case with a written element. Graduating teachers will present and unpack an authentic practice scenario that requires complex decision-making and synthesis of learning from across the programme with clear integration of theory and practice and alignment with the Code and Standards of the teaching profession. This event is assessed by a panel made up of teacher educators, Rūnanga, Pasifika Council, and a representative member of the teaching profession. At the conclusion of the Viva the graduate is assessed by the panel as to have met or not met the Standards with support against pass/fail criteria.

Our Code Our Standards may be accessed on the Teaching Council of Aotearoa website at: <https://teachingcouncil.nz/professional-practice/our-code-our-standards/>

Admission Requirements

General Admission Requirements

The normal requirement for admission requires applicants to show evidence they have:

- An appropriate bachelor's degree at Level 7 on the New Zealand Qualifications Framework and/or postgraduate qualification, AND
- A body of knowledge from Levels 5 to 7 or higher in support of New Zealand Curriculum learning areas for at least one Year 7-10 teaching subject/s and at least one Year 11-13 teaching subject/s, OR
- For language teaching: native or fluent reading, writing, speaking and listening in the language

The learning areas within the New Zealand Curriculum are:

- English
- Te Reo Māori
- The arts - art history, dance, drama, music, visual arts

It is recommended that applicants wishing to teach less common specialist subjects, such as religious education, philosophy, psychology, environmental studies (Education for Sustainability), are capable of teaching in another learning area as well, based on their previous study, or language fluency. For language teaching: near-native or fluent proficiency in reading, writing, speaking and listening in the language must be evidenced. Laidlaw College provides support for applicants when choosing teaching subjects.

References

As part of the application process, all applicants are required to arrange for two confidential written referee reports to be sent directly to Laidlaw College.

Visual Interview

All applicants for the Bachelor of Education and Graduate Diploma in Education are required to have a visual interview by panel. The panel consists of a Rūnanga delegate, member of the teaching profession, and a Laidlaw teacher educator. The interview determines:

- The applicant's disposition to teach, through judging their ability to meet the values that underpin Our Code Our Standards
- The applicant's ability to meet the Code of Professional Responsibility in a supported environment
- Vulnerable Children's Act risk assessment (interview component) AND
- Other relevant matters

Our Code Our Standards

Students should read the Code and Standards prior to their interview. Our Code Our Standards may be accessed on the Teaching Council of Aotearoa website at: <https://teachingcouncil.nz/content/our-code-our-standards>

Prospective students must be committed to the following values:

- Whakamana - empowering all learners to reach their highest potential by providing high-quality teaching and leadership
- Manaakitanga - creating a welcoming, caring and creative learning environment that treats everyone with respect and dignity
- Pono - showing integrity by acting in ways that are fair, honest, ethical and just
- Whanaungatanga - engaging in positive and collaborative relationships with learners, their families and whānau, colleagues, and the wider community

Literacy and Numeracy Testing

All applicants for the Bachelor of Education and Graduate Diploma in Education are required to undergo a literacy and numeracy assessment.

- Candidates must score step 4 in the TEC literacy (reading and writing) assessment to enter the programme
- Candidates must score step 5 in the TEC numeracy assessment to enter the programme

Special Admission

For applicants who do not meet the above requirements, possible study options can arise depending on the assessment and interview result:

- An offer of entry to a level 4 programme
- An offer of entry to another Laidlaw programme

English Language Requirements

English Language Requirements for the Bachelor of Education (Primary) and the Graduate Diploma in Education [Secondary] follows the Teaching Council of Aotearoa New Zealand requirements for preservice teachers. ## Transport to Professional Learning Experience Placements

All students in the BEd and GradDipEd must be able to travel to attend professional learning experience placements and are responsible to organise their own transport. However, the Practicum Coordinator or Programme Lead will prioritise placements at schools and centres local to students if possible.

Cultural Understanding

Te Tiriti o Waitangi

Laidlaw College believes strongly in the fostering of bicultural understanding as part of its affirmation of the Treaty of Waitangi. The Treaty of Waitangi is foundational for the Code and Standards of the Teaching Profession and for Laidlaw's education programmes. The college is proud to have strong leadership from the Rūnanga. The Rūnanga provides guardianship for the college and in particular the education faculty in relation to Mātauranga Māori, Te Reo Māori, Te Ao Māori and maintaining Te Tiriti O Waitangi. The Rūnanga and Māori student support team play a specific role in supporting Māori education students to success.

With the guidance of the lead Bicultural Advisor/Kaumātua, education students engage in a variety of bicultural experiences, learning and reflection. All education students attend noho marae during their programme of study. In preparation for noho marae, students attend a series of classes designed to equip them with a basic understanding of Te Reo and Tikanga, in order that they can participate in the formal protocols of the marae. For DipCEd and BEd students in Education, this is a structural part of the 907.515 Bicultural Relationships course. For GradDipEd students, this introduction to Te Reo and Tikanga is integrated in the 890.730 Ako course.

Te Reo Māori is a requirement for all student teachers in New Zealand. At Laidlaw College all BEd and GradDipEd students will engage in Te Reo Māori diagnostic testing soon after entry and be supported by a Kaiako in Te Reo Māori learning to a minimum of level 3 in Te Aho Arataki Marau (the te reo Māori Curriculum for English Medium Settings) <https://tereomaori.tiki.org.nz/Curriculum-guidelines>

The Education Faculty is committed to the objectives of Ka Hikitia - The Māori Education Strategy and Tātaiako - Cultural Competencies for Teachers of Māori Learners. <https://teachingcouncil.nz/assets/Files/Code-and-Standards/Tataiako-cultural-competencies-for-teachers-of-Maori-learners.pdf>

Pasifika Council

The Laidlaw Pasifika Council is a Pasifika Caucus advising on strategic direction, pathways, programmes; and supporting the development of Laidlaw Pasifika initiatives in the wider community and across the Pacific region. It was established with the purpose of providing cohesive governance for Pasifika students, staff and all Pasifika initiatives. It has strategic overview and responsibility of developing a 20-year Laidlaw Pasifika Strategic plan for Laidlaw. The education programmes embrace Tāpasa: (see teaching council link above).

Modes of Delivery

Our mode of delivery is in-person delivery that occurs across the Henderson and Christchurch campuses.

For some of our courses the classes that occur between the two locations may be live from one location and video conferenced to the other location. The course lecturer alternates teaching between the two locations to ensure equity of learning experience for students.

This form of delivery also includes content delivered via Moodle, video with screen sharing tutorials, access to Teams discussion groups (student to student and student to lecturers), forums, selection of various assignment components, and connection with student support services as needed.

“Laidlaw has equipped me with having the basis of the Gospel. Being able to be a Christian teacher in a secular environment has been a challenge but I have the constant reminder that

CHRIST IS THE CENTRE OF IT ALL.

I’ve got the sense of comfort and peace that I can take whatever comes because I have that firm foundation.”

Nick Vemoa,
Graduate Teacher

Programme Guide

Programme Requirements for Students Enrolling in the GradDipEd

The graduate diploma is a prescribed teacher education programme of study. It is made up of a total of 135 credits at NZQF level 7. The programme consists of 6 courses, comprising linked theory and praxis.

General Information

Course Numbering and Credit System

The Laidlaw course numbering system follows this pattern:

- The first digit indicates the field of study (e.g. 1 = Biblical Studies, 8 = Education, 9 = Counselling).
- The second and third digits further define the level and/or subject area (e.g. 120 = Old Testament).
- The first digit after the decimal point indicates the National Qualifications Framework level.
- The second and third digits after the decimal point indicate the credit value of the course (e.g. 15 = 15 credits, 30 = 30 credits).
- One credit is equivalent to ten hours of learning.
A 15 credit course = 150 hours of learning.

ENCOUNTER

Laidlaw College seeks to practice education in response to the triune God who is revealed to humanity through Christ. Encounter with God, people and ideas is crucial if our lives are to be formed in faithfulness, hope and love for the renewal of the churches and communities in which we participate.

Course Descriptions

215.515 BEGINNING THEOLOGY

This course introduces students to theological reflection, providing opportunities for students to develop basic skills for working with biblical texts and theological ideas and applying those skills in educational contexts.

850.515 REFLECTIVE PRACTICES

Reflective Practices is a programme of targeted, integrated, and creative self-analysis with an outward focus on developing practice. This transformative and collaborative approach is designed to facilitate authentic growth in student teachers through their professional practice experience.

851.515 INNOVATIVE TEACHING

This course introduces the foundational concepts of teaching and learning in the context of the digital age. The course also develops an understanding of the learner in a learning-focused culture. Digital technologies are changing the way that teachers plan, curate resources, organise content delivery and manage the classroom environment. Digital devices both make new types of learning activities possible, and at the same time highlight how learner preferences and competencies for digital learning vary. This course will explore these issues, as well as how to maximise motivation for learning in an innovative learning environment. The role of assessment of learners' achievement and evaluation of effective teaching and learning in innovative environments is also explored.

852.515 DEVELOPING NUMERACY

Students will develop a critical understanding of early years numeracy development in New Zealand primary schools and mathematics in the New Zealand Curriculum and Te Whāriki. Pedagogies and practices for the teaching of mathematics are introduced. The relationship between the mathematics and the digital technologies curricula and Te Whāriki will also be explored.

853.515 DEVELOPING LITERACY

Literacy is foundational to citizenship in society. This course introduces early literacy teaching and learning strategies encompassing oral, written and visual forms of English. The relationship between making meaning and creating meaning in Primary English across levels 1 and 2 of the New Zealand curriculum and Te Whāriki is clarified. English as an Additional Language (EAL/D) teaching theory is introduced.

855.515 INCLUSIVE EDUCATION

This foundational course explores primary education as ako—the flow of teaching and learning, the spiritual nurturing of the child – taha wairua, and whaiwāhitanga – inclusion of all learners. On this platform, a broad understanding of additional learning needs is identified, and effective and responsive pedagogies are developed and connected to inclusive practices, inclusive environments, and inclusive management strategies. A theology of inclusion is developed in response to an understanding of how teacher values, attitudes and beliefs impact on learner and learning.

857.515 HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

This course surveys contemporary understandings of human development in conversation with Christian theological descriptions of human being.

861.615 CRITICAL MATHEMATICS EDUCATION

This course builds upon Developing Numeracy. It is designed to challenge students to critique a range of current pedagogical and social issues in mathematics and statistics education. There is a specific focus on upper primary and intermediate mathematics curriculum knowledge, and on the teaching and learning of statistics from a critical pedagogical perspective.

862.615 TEACHING AND LEARNING ENGLISH

The English learning area is structured around the modes of making meaning and creating meaning. This course advances students' understanding of the relationship between making meaning and creating meaning in Level 3 and 4 of the New Zealand Curriculum and across all strands. It also includes a focus on how English might be integrated within other learning areas. Advanced strategies for English as an Additional Language (EAL/D) teaching and support are developed.

863.615 ARTS EDUCATION

Artistic expression is a way of making meaning of the world in which we live. In this course, students will explore Arts Education design for learning, collate resources and think deeply about the arts.

864.615 LEARNING AND THE BODY

This course develops understanding about learning and the body. The Health and Physical Education learning area is explored in depth as well as opportunities to think about learning and the body across other Learning Areas including Education Outside the Classroom (Outdoor Education).

865.615 LITERACY AND NUMERACY PRACTICES

PRE-REQUISITE: 850.515

CO-REQUISITE: 861.615 & 862.615

This course gives opportunity for student teachers to develop effective pedagogical practices that contribute to children's learning in Numeracy and Literacy programmes. In a microteaching context, student teachers design, teach, assess and evaluate sequences of lessons for small groups in the learning areas of English and Mathematics. Effective strategies for the English as an Additional Language (EAL/D) learner are also implemented and assessed. Students also have an opportunity to explore the contextual complexities that impact the classroom environment.

866.615 CURRICULUM AND COMMUNITY PRACTICES

PRE-REQUISITE: 850.515

CO-REQUISITE: At least 2 of 863.615, 867.615 or 873.615

The goal of this course is for student teachers to explore effective teaching practices in the Learning Areas of the New Zealand Curriculum, such as The Arts, Social Sciences, Science and Technology. Students will apply professional knowledge to unit design, delivery and assessment within an learning environment. Students will maintain an effective learning environment across increasing intervals of time with a goal of sustaining teaching for two days. Students will also participate in the school community..

867.615 SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY

This course explores design for learning in Science and Technology in the New Zealand Curriculum with reflection on sustainability. Inquiry-based learning and design thinking is explored and applied to a major project that uses technology to investigate a relevant and current scientific issue. This course will also explore and develop competence and confidence in the Digital Technologies strand of the Technology Curriculum. The learning areas of Science and Technology are further investigated for their impact on society and in the context of theology.

869.615 MAHI TAHI: RELATIONAL APPROACHES TO LEARNING

This course explores relational approaches to classroom management including restorative practices, Positive Behaviour for Learning (PB4L) and Huakina Mai. This course is set in a framework of psychological and theological understandings of relationality.

873.615 LEARNING ABOUT PEOPLE AND PLACE

This course explores pedagogies and practices for teaching the Social Sciences. Beginning with the history and geography of Aotearoa New Zealand, the course reflects on interconnections between local and global communities in the areas of culture and identity, place and environment, continuity and change and the economic world. Conceptual understandings and approaches such as social inquiry are investigated. The course provides the opportunity to design quality learning experiences in the social sciences for diverse learners.

876.715 RESPONSIVE PRACTICES

PRE-REQUISITE: 866.615 or 868.615 or 865.615

CO-REQUISITE: 878.715

This practicum offers students the opportunity to participate in the set up and establishment phase of a classroom. Secondly, the student teacher develops responsive pedagogies in the context of culturally and linguistically diverse classrooms and communities. Thirdly, student teachers will draw on repertoires of professional knowledge, pedagogies, and practices to facilitate learning in the classroom in a sustained, full responsibility capacity with support.

877.715 INQUIRING TEACHER PRACTICES

PRE-REQUISITE: 866.615 or 868.615 or 865.615

CO-REQUISITE: 878.715

Students will draw on repertoires of knowledge, pedagogies, and evidence-led practices to facilitate learning for the classroom in a sustained, full-responsibility capacity consistent with the Code and Standards of the New Zealand teaching profession. Students will have an opportunity to critically examine their philosophy and theology of practice in relation to the Standards. This course gives students opportunity to demonstrate evidence-led teaching via teacher inquiry.

878.715 MĀTAURANGA MĀORI

This course explores the development of Māori Education in Aotearoa New Zealand in the framework of a theology of reconciliation. Recent research is investigated for strategies and practices that support the educational aspirations of ākonga Māori. Ka Hikitia and Tātaiako are engaged. The course also explores pedagogies and principles for the teaching and learning of Te Reo in bicultural contexts. Students participate in conversational Te Reo to an elementary level. This course includes noho marae.

880.715 CRITICAL PEDAGOGY

In this course students will explore the interrelation of social justice, critical pedagogy, critical multiculturalism and primary education from global, local, theological and personal perspectives. With a focus on the Pasifika learner, critical pedagogy and critical multiculturalism are engaged in the design of learning experiences that support equity and excellence for all learners.

881.715 TEACHING AS INQUIRY

This course explores the place of research and particularly action research (teacher-as-learner) in teaching in Aotearoa New Zealand. Recent research regarding Teacher Learning through Inquiry is evaluated. The relationship between The Teaching as Inquiry Cycle and its impact on teacher practices and learner achievement is investigated.

882.715 TŪMANAKO: THEOLOGY AND EDUCATION***

This course brings together themes of faith, hope and love in theology and educational theory. Theological conceptions of incarnation, resurrection and trinity are explored and connections with philosophies of education are developed.

883.715 ETHICS AND EDUCATION

This course explores ethical theory, Christian ethics and moral development in the context of education. The history and philosophy of Christian ethics and ethics is surveyed including the themes of personal, social and environmental ethics. The course provides ethical decision-making frameworks and strategies for ethical thinking via case studies. The course explores the role of the educational community in the development of ethical codes and collaborative, reflective professional discussion in the development of ethical practice.

890.730 AKO

From the perspective of a Freirean incarnational educational practice this course explores foundations, both professional and theological, of secondary teaching and learning in Aotearoa-New Zealand. This course includes: understandings of adolescent learning, future-focused education, the Aotearoa-New Zealand educational system, Treaty of Waitangi commitments, and theological approaches to education.

891.730 PRAXIS 1

In this professional placement course students work through modules that develop their understanding of the learning context and proficiency as practitioners. Students undertake a range of module-based inquiries on two professional learning experience placements at their host school, and a third placement which is undertaken in another context. Students will apply professional knowledge to design for learning, pedagogies and practices, with increasing teaching responsibility across the three placements.

892.730 PRAXIS 2

Students will draw on repertoires of knowledge, pedagogies, and evidence-led practices to facilitate learning for the classroom in a sustained, full responsibility capacity consistent with the Code and Standards of the New Zealand teaching profession. Students will have an opportunity to critically examine their philosophy and theology of practice in relation to the Standards. This course develops students' understandings of their major and minor subject areas, content and assessment, and develops their professional skills in a classroom setting. Students undertake a range of module-based inquiries in three school-based professional placements.

907.515 BICULTURAL RELATIONSHIPS

People of all cultures draw their own self-knowledge from their engagement with other people and the world. In the Aotearoa New Zealand context this means an honouring of covenantal spirit of the Te Tiriti o Waitangi and an awareness of its relational intent. This course introduces tikanga Māori on the basis of understanding people in their contexts, and combines theological, theoretical and historical reflection with the development of practices drawn from an integration of these. The course includes regular oral activities aimed at developing fluency in the use of te reo and tikanga in a range of settings. The culmination of this oral learning is participation in the Noho Marae, where an overnight stay on a marae provides an integrated opportunity to engage with Māori culture beyond the classroom.

FORMATION

The world needs leaders who are articulate and skilful but also people of conviction, courage, kindness and wisdom. The transformation of life and the formation of leaders is integral to our educational practice and our special character as an institution. Spiritual formation is integral to our undergraduate programmes.
