

Graduate Diploma in Education (Secondary) (GradDipEd)

level 7, 135 credits

Flexible Study Options

Students can study towards the GradDipEd on campus in Henderson and Christchurch. The programme draws upon a praxis model integrating theory and practice, with students spending at least 16 weeks on professional practice block placements at significant junctures. This intensive programme begins mid-January and concludes at the end of November.

The GradDipEd caters for:

Those who have completed a degree, have a body of knowledge at levels 5-7 in support of New Zealand Curriculum learning areas, and wish to become a teacher for secondary, intermediate and middle school.

Students will develop their skills in teaching relevant learning area/s of the New Zealand Curriculum, which are:

- English
- Te Reo Māori
- The arts: art history, dance, drama, music, visual arts
- Health and physical education, including home economics
- Learning languages: Cook Island Māori, French, German, Japanese, Korean, Latin, Lea Faka-Tonga, NZ Sign Language, Mandarin, Samoan, Spanish
- Mathematics and statistics
- Science: science, biology, chemistry, physics
- Social sciences: accounting, business, classics, economics, geography, history, legal, media, philosophy, psychology, religious education, social studies, sustainability
- Technology: design in technology, manufacturing, construction and mechanical, design and visual communication, digital, processing

2024 Fees

Domestic - Zero fees

International - $3,015 per 15-credit course. $27,135 for one year (6 courses, 135 credits)

Excludes Student Services fee of $4 per credit.

Please refer to Fees Schedule for more details (www.laidlaw.ac.nz/fees)

Programme Requirements

The GradDipEd is a one year full-time (or part-time equivalent) programme. It is made up of six level 7 courses – three of 30 credits each and three of 15 credits each.

For students in the GradDipEd programme, course pre-requisite and co-requisite regulations may be waived. The programme requirements are as follows:

LEVEL 7
878.715 Mātauranga Māori	891.730 Praxis 1
881.715 Teaching as Inquiry	892.730 Praxis 2
883.715 Ethics and Education	893.730 Ako: Incarnational teaching and learning practices for secondary
TOTAL CREDITS REQUIRED: 135

Courses

878.715 MĀTAURANGA MĀORI

This course explores the application of Mātauranga Māori in Aotearoa New Zealand. Recent research is investigated for strategies and practices that support the educational aspirations of ākonga Māori. Ka Hikitia, Tātaiako, and the Hikairo Scheme are engaged. The course also explores pedagogies and principles for the teaching and learning of te reo Māori in bicultural contexts. Ties are made to theological and Christian views around justice and reconciliation. Students participate in conversational te reo Māori to an elementary level. This course includes noho marae.

881.715 TEACHING AS INQUIRY

Learn about the place of Teaching as Inquiry in the wider educational research field and in teaching in Aotearoa New Zealand. Current literature about Teaching as Inquiry is discussed and evaluated. The relationship between Teaching as Inquiry and its impact on teacher practices and learner achievement is investigated through the application of the Spiral of Inquiry in a school-based environment.

883.715 ETHICS AND EDUCATION

This course explores ethical theory, Christian ethics and moral development in the context of education. The history and philosophy of Christian ethics and ethics is surveyed, including the themes of personal, social and environmental ethics. The course provides ethical decision-making frameworks and strategies for ethical thinking via case studies. The course explores the role of the educational community in the development of ethical codes and collaborative, reflective professional discussion in the development of ethical practice.

891.730 PRAXIS 1

In this professional placement course students will develop their understanding of the learning context and proficiency as practitioners. Students will engage with the Standards of the Teaching Profession and will critically analyse the importance of learning-focused culture, design for learning and teaching. Students will apply their knowledge across two placements, in which they will move from observing to taking increasing responsibility.

892.730 PRAXIS 2

Students will draw on repertoires of knowledge, pedagogies, and evidence-led practices to facilitate learning for the classroom in a sustained, full responsibility capacity consistent with the Code and Standards of the New Zealand teaching profession. Students will have an opportunity to critically examine their philosophy and theology of practice in relation to the Standards. This course develops students' understandings in their major and minor subject areas, content and assessment, and develops their professional skills in a classroom setting. Students undertake a range of assessments based on their theoretical learning in class and their school-based professional placements.

893.730 AKO: INCARNATIONAL TEACHING AND LEARNING PRACTICES FOR SECONDARY

Firmly grounded in Laidlaw's Conceptual Framework and the Code of Professional Responsibility, this course explores foundations, both professional and theological, of secondary teaching and learning in Aotearoa-New Zealand.

READY TO APPLY? ANY QUESTIONS?

0800 999 777

info@laidlaw.ac.nz | www.laidlaw.ac.nz

UPDATED 6 NOVEMBER 2023